

This is a word to you who do not listen, for you will be found out and exposed. For my church shall be without spot or wrinkle. Shout my praises. Let everyone know how I've touched your lives. Be bold. Don't let the fear of man deter you from obeying my voice. They will know if you are mine or not. I am calling my sheep. And if they recognize my voice, they will follow me and obey me.

Do you love me? Do you love me? If you do- obey. I will break off every habit, addiction, and hindrance holding you back from being sanctified, wholly, righteous and pure. No more shame or evil past shall taint my bride. No more pretending your hot love for me. I will wipe out the luke warmness. I will wipe out the contrarianness from you and make it exciting to wake up each new day and have the chance to be in my presence again.

Angels will sing you lullabies while you sleep. There is no way you will miss my leading during the day. Follow my fragrance. It will be fresh all over you each morning and cover those who are around you. It is I who will be going before you, protecting you and providing for you and saving, delivering, healing and reviving everyone I send to you.

Do not look for them, but look for me in them. Be my hands, my voice, my forgiving compassionate eyes, my love. And love them in my name. Go as my bride. Reach down into the intimate chambers of your heart where we meet. Where we love and love them like you love me here. For they are mine no matter what they look like or where they've been. They are mine. And I love them. Now use this mercy, love and compassion on each other. Take this year to unify as one bride who is fully and totally in love with her groom, her lover. Watch the power and the miracles come forth from our union. Be one with me for there is much we must do, My love.
